Config Studio: Administrator password management

Entering the password

The image is grey and will change to blue once you start entering your password.

Changing the password

If you press and hold the image, the panel will become larger; allowing you to change the password.

.

The image is red and will change to blue only if the new password is entered correctly: